

A Season for Singing

In the spirit of the magic of the season that is nearly upon us, and by request, I am offering this, the title song from A Season for Singing. It has been sung over the years by children's choirs and included in school programs. Because of that, I am including an instrumental version of it for you to use as accompaniment. And in order to give you enough time to learn it, we are putting it up early. I have always loved the fact that people of all faiths and traditions celebrate at this time of year. So Happy Holidays, whatever your holiday may be!

Chorus:

All around the world it's a season for singing
Though every voice may sing a different song
All around the world, hear the children all bringing Songs of hope to last all year long

So light the menorah or hang piñatas high
Let's sing a song together as we share the winter sky
(chorus)

So strum the balalaika and shake maracas too
You can play an Irish harp and I'll bring drums and flute
(chorus)

So bring out the holly and hang the mistletoe high
Let's sing a song together as we share the winter sky

Many more holiday songs and music activities are available at www.nancymusic.com and on the A Season for Singing CD, available in our shop.